The syllabus for all the four semesters were presented and scrutinised. After presenting each course, a threadbare analysis of the viability and appropriateness of the allotted teaching components was made and suggested necessary changes were carried out. A detailed report of the discussions follow:

Dr.V.Anbarasi, Head of the Department, welcomed the gathering and apprised the purpose of the meeting, inviting everyone to offer constructive suggestions for the enrichment of the syllabus framed. Dr.T.Gangadharan, Incharge of the Foundation English Board presented the syllabus for four semesters. The title of the first semester is Communicative English-I and of the second semester is Communicative English-II. These two courses contain the syllabus, prescribed by TANSCHE. The courses for the four semesters are as follows:

Course Code	Title
21FEL01	Communicative English-I
21FEL02	Communicative English-II
21FEL03	Foundation English-I
21FEL04	Foundation English-II
	21FEL01 21FEL02 21FEL03	21FEL01 Communicative English-I 21FEL02 Communicative English-II 21FEL03 Foundation English-I

Semester-I and II - Communicative English-I and II

The External Subject Expert, Dr.S.Lavanya offered her views and recommendations for the first two semesters, teachability of phonetics for the Foundation English students. Further, the listening and speaking skills can be implemented depending on the classroom situations. She also suggested that the internal assessment components should be ear-marked. She further said that the classes must be interaction-oriented. Famous speeches of the great leaders may be incorporated. Dr.R.Chandrasekar suggested that autonomous institutions must take the liberty to incorporate some of the features, according to the needs of the college concerned. Further, he added that 50:50 ratio of the internal and external assessment can be introduced. Foundation English should be focused for improving credits. The nomenclature of the course, namely, Communicative English I and II can be retained, but the contents of the paper should be based on the needs of faculty and students of the college. Dr.B.R.Veeramani suggested to introduce Phonetics as a course for the benefit of the students.

Semester-III- Foundation English-I

Dr.S.Lavanya expressed her concern over the complete deviation from the first two semesters to the next two semesters. Mr.Sivachandran Parameswaran suggested to introduce diagrammatic texts for improving the communicative competence of the students. Since this type of skill is expected in industries, students should be honed in skills in Foundation English itself.

Semester-IV- Foundation English-II

Dr.S.Lavanya suggested to introduce Communicative English course in the syllabi at least for internal assessment. Dr.R.Chandrasekar suggested to introduce at least 40% of the syllabus for public speaking. Mr.Sivachandran Parameswaran appreciated the inclusion of composition exercises, like E mail, which is the most essential ability required in the industrial sector.

Total Credits: 12 Total Marks: 400

No. of Courses Introduced: 2

No. of Courses Revised: 2

Observations:

All the external experts unanimously appreciated both the structure and content of all the four courses in English in the four semesters. They opined that the courses are creative, interaction-oriented, well-formed syllabi.

Dear Sir/Madam,

We discussed Part II English - Communicative English I and II for the first year and English III and IV for the second

Suggestions were made to utilize autonomous liberty in the methodology suitable for our own students even if we follow the same syllabus prescribed by the government.

Self-study and Activity Based Learning for the students suggested for further progress. At the outset, We congratulate the teamwork and arrive at this positive resolution, and accepted it.

I Thank you Yours Sincerely. Dr.R. Chandrasekar Associate Professor of English' SRMV Coilege of Arts and Science Coimbatore 641020

The Chairman of the Board, Prof. M. Jayabalan discussed the framework of the Curriculum for the 2 year Post Graduate course in Applied Geology. The general course framework and curriculum was discussed and designed in a hierarchical and structured approach from basis, details, application and enhancement.

The Board after discussions formalized the framework of the postgraduate Applied Geology with some minor changes in the distribution of subjects and papers.

The new syllabus for I Semester, Core Paper- I – Advanced Mineralogy (21PGL01), after communications between the members was accepted to be incorporated as such with no major changes.

The second core paper Applied Geomorphology (21PGL02) was discussed with a decision to retain it as such with minor changes: soil profile, alluvial land forms and related topics recommended to be added to the appropriate units.

The third core paper Stratigraphy and Paleontology (21PGL03) was discussed with a decision to add modern topics such as International Stratigraphic code, sea level cycles, chemostratigraphy, radiolaria, and conodonts in the appropriate units.

The fourth core paper Structural Geology & Geotectonics (21PGL04) was discussed with a decision to add joints, unconformities, and paleomagnetism in the appropriate units.

The fifth core paper Economic Geology & Mineral Economics (21PGL05) was discussed and retained without any changes.

The sixth core paper Exploration Geophysics (21PGL06) was discussed with a decision to add an introduction to ground penetrating radar, logging methods: bond log, density log, concepts of measurement while drilling, and logging while drilling to the appropriate units.

The first core practical Structural Geology, Stratigraphy and Remote Sensing (21PGL01) was deliberated and was decided to be retained without any changes.

The second core practical Advanced Crystallography & Mineralogy (21PGL02), was deliberated and was decided to be retained without any changes.

The first major based elective paper Petroleum Geosciences (21PGLM1) was deliberated and was decided to be retained with minor additions – petroleum system, hydrogen index, methods of enhanced recovery, shale gas, tight oil sand, and gas hydrates in the appropriate units.

The syllabus for all the four semesters were presented and scrutinised. After presenting each course, a threadbare analysis of the viability and appropriateness of the allotted teaching components was made and suggestions of the subject experts were carried out. A detailed report of the discussions follows:

Semester I

21UEL01 - Core Course I: British Literature - I

This is a new paper in which British Literature up to the Romantic Age was included. The paper was completely approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

21UEL02 - Core Course II: Indian Literatures in English

This is an old paper wherein the title Indian Writing in English was replaced. 30% of the portions were revised and the paper was completely approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

21AEL01 - Allied - I: Social History of England

This is an old paper in which 15% portions were revised and the paper was completely approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

SEMESTER II

21UEL03 - Core Course III: British Literature - II

This is a new paper and the chosen course material was appreciated by the external subject experts and was completely approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members. The general suggestions were that the prescribed writers were to be arranged in chronological order for the students to get familiarised with their era.

21UEL04 - Core Course - IV: American Literature - I

This is a new paper in which the first unit introduces American Literature and various literary movements. The select works are chosen from prose and poetry of American, Ethnic and Afro – American writers. The course was compact and hence, completely approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

21AEL02 - Allied - II: Literary Forms and Terms

This course retains the same title of the old syllabus and only 15% of the teaching components were revised. The paper was approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

SEMESTER III

21UEL05 - Core Course V: American Literature - II

This is a new course which deals with American drama and fiction. The suggestion of the subject experts to inter change Units II and III was accepted and the paper was completely approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

21UEL06 - Core Course VI: Commonwealth Literature

This is an old paper but in which 40% of portions were revised. Dr. K.T. Tamilmani apprehended the availability of texts for all the components but when ascertained about a compilation which will be made available to the students, he agreed. The paper was completely approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

21AEL03 - Allied - III: History of English Literature - I

This is an old paper in which 70% of revision was carried out. Dr. S. Karthick kumar raised a valid doubt about the heaviness of the paper and resolved the issue with the suggestion of a simple text to be prescribed. This suggestion was accepted and approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

21UELS1 - Skill Enhancement Course I: Presentation Skills

This is a new course which was appreciated for its compactness and the paper was completely approved (with a suggestion of one more text by Dr. K. T. Tamilmani) by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

21UELN1- Non-Major Elective Course I: Academic Skills - I

This is a new course which was recommended and approved whole heartedly by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

SEMESTER IV

21UEL07- Core Course VII: Indian Literatures in English Translation

This is a new paper and the course components were appreciated for their appropriateness and approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members. It was further recommended to add a prose piece of Swami Vivekananda and it was unanimously agreed.

21UEL08- Core Course - VIII: World Classics

This is an old paper in which 60% of portions were revised. The paper was completely approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

21AEL02 - Allied - IV: History of English Literature - II

This is an old paper in which 70% of revision was carried out. Once again the heaviness of the course was a matter of concern expressed by subject experts. It was resolved that the students in the fourth semester will be capable of learning as the components cannot be dispensed with from the point of view of competitive examinations and hence it was approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members.

21UELS2 - Skill Enhancement Course II: Tourism and Travel Writing

This is a new course which was approved by both the external subject experts and the internal members after careful scrutiny.

21UELN2- Non-Major Elective Course - II: Academic Skills - II

This is a new course which was accepted with a few suggestions from the subject experts and approved completely by both the external subject experts and the internal members.
